DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-19, drawn to an ETCRA method and associated computer code for executing, classified in class 725, subclass 22.
 - II. Claims 20-46, drawn to a DDTV method and associated computer code for executing, classified in class 725, subclass 22.
 - III. Claims 47-51, drawn to a SSE Database structure and method of generating the structure, classified in class 707, subclass 100.
 - IV. Claims 52-57, drawn to a Derivation Database structure and method of generating the structure, classified in class 707, subclass 100.
 - V. Claims 58-66, drawn to the layout and composition of a Derivation report, classified in class 715, subclass 500.
 - VI. Claims 67-72, drawn to the a computer system or computer product for executing at least one of a ETCRA or DDTV algorithm and for generating either the SSE or Derivation Database structures, classified in class 725, subclass 22.
2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II-IV are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the computer system and computer product do not recite or rely upon the claimed particulars of at least one of the ETCRA or DDTV algorithms or the particular SSE Database or Derivation Database structures or the particular formatting of a generated report. The subcombinations do not require the particulars of the claimed combination (ex. could be executed via other means) and further have separate utility from the combination and from one another. For example, Invention I provides a particular method for determining and storing an expected-time-channel for a television. Invention II provides a particular method for determining derivation from an expected television schedule. Inventions III and IV each provides separate utility in that each provide a distinctive data structure and method for creating a particular data structure. Finally, Invention V provides separate utility by providing a particularly formatted/organized report.

3. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
4. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for each of the aforementioned groups is not required for the other corresponding groups (ex. search for Group I is not required for Group II) restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
5. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
